

The Institute for Humane Education presents:

Sowing Seeds Humane Education Workshop

Saturday, November 7th

8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Sponsored By: The Madeleine Berman Academy for Humane Education

Hosted by: The Detroit Zoological Society

Change your students' lives. Change the world.

The Sowing Seeds Workshop is designed to train educators to effectively teach critical thinking about social justice, environmental ethics, and animal protection, and thereby enhance their student's understanding that their choices make an impact on themselves, other people, other species, and the Earth. The workshop focuses on providing participants with a constructive approach for teaching about complex, controversial issues. Sowing Seeds offers participants dynamic activities and practical tips, demonstrations of the effectiveness of humane education, and an opportunity for group participation. The workshop is recommended for educators of all types - classroom teachers and community educators. The Power and Promise of Humane Education by Zoe Weil, the text for the course, is included in the registration fee and contains sample lesson plans that educators can incorporate into their classes in age-appropriate and relevant ways.

"I feel so much better prepared to advocate for humane ways of being on this Earth in both my personal life and in my role as a teacher."

~ Claire Ruthenburg, Participant from Maine

"One of the most inspiring things I have ever done as an educator. It is fantastic material!"

~ Maggie Foster, Participant from Vancouver, Canada

Registration Fee: $30

To register, contact: education@detroitzoo.org; 248-541-5717 Ext. 3800

Light breakfast, lunch (both vegan), and The Power & Promise of Humane Education is included.

Venue: The Detroit Zoological Society, www.detroitzoo.org

Address: 8450 W. 10 Mile Rd., Royal Oak, Michigan 48067

Professional Development: .6 SB-CEUs for teachers in Michigan ($10 additional fee for SB-CEUs, to be paid the day of the workshop)

Course Provider: The Institute for Humane Education (IHE) is a non-profit, 501(c)(3) educational organization dedicated to creating a peaceful and sustainable world through humane education. Visit: www.HumaneEducation.org.

Madeleine Berman
Academy for Humane Education
helping people help animals

